

Tidal Lagoon (Swansea Bay) plc

Harness the Power of Swansea Bay

Tidal Lagoon Swansea Bay (TLSB) will be the world's first, purpose built, tidal energy lagoon, capable of generating predictable, renewable electricity for 120,000 homes for 120 years.

The power of the tides in Swansea Bay can be harnessed to provide electricity that is secure, local, renewable, reliable and long-term. The Swansea Bay Tidal Lagoon is an investment in the region of £750 million and an opportunity for Wales to lead a UK tidal range industry whilst enjoying the diverse benefits of this unique energy infrastructure. The ambition is to create a power plant that means something positive for everyone in Swansea Bay, in addition to clean power, tidal lagoons will create jobs, support onshore regeneration, enhance flood defences and foster healthy living.

Working with international charity Cape Farewell, TLSB had established its cultural programme to create a forum for artists, scientists and communicators to be brought to together to stimulate the production of art founded in scientific research. We hope to use creativity to innovate and encourage artists in their ability to evolve and amplify a creative language.

The TLSB cultural programme is an opportunity for local and international artists from all disciplines and ages to apply with proposals for potential artwork to be founded on the Lagoon.
